The noblest thoughts my soul can claim,
The highest words my tongue can frame.
Unworthy are to praise the name
More sacred than all other.
An infant when her love first came
A man I find just the same.
Everently I breathe her name—
The sacred name of mother."

The legend of the angels' quest for the most beautiful picture in the world is familiar to all. One after another of the beautiful pictures of flowers, places, and faces were rejected by the arch angel, till a beaten spirit messenger presented the picture of a mother bending over the cradle of a dimpling babe. The picture was chosen as greatest in heaven and earth, and since that time has been tightened with the halo of holiness. Enshrined in the heart of every Herald reader is this sacred picture, that has been the light and inspiration of his life, and should not be relegated to the garret of thought and affection in adult years, but prized the more as time speeds toward eternity, where the transcendent love of his mother becomes the compelling power, drawing him from the pitfalls of the earth plane to the realm of saints. Four years ago the appeal to the American people to consecrate one day to reverential commemoration of mothers, was made by Miss Anna Jarvis in the Woman's Home Companion and has been generally adopted by most of the states as a legal holy day rather than a holiday. A congressional speaker urged legislation creating a national holiday for "The greatest of all heroes—the mothers of heroes." The vote for the national holiday did not carry but the second Sunday in May was named as a day for national commemoration. Mrs. Ada Morley has been largely instrumental in bringing the day to the attention of western governors, who have promptly headed the procession of states in calling for general observance. Only one governor of the west refused to endorse the movement. Not a man in the nation with reverence for motherhood in his veins but feels that motherhood is also honored in the eulogies paid to her who was "The divinity of infancy" the ministering angel in sickness, the proud sympathizer in prosperity and loyal believer in his honor even in disgrace. Tomorrow let every adult child in Albuquerque consecrate the day to his mother, whether living or dead. If alive, visit here, present her with white carnations, express appreciation of her unwavering devotion, take her for a drive or that not being possible, write to the absent mother, a real heart letter as to the truest sweetheart man ever had. If she has passed through the "Valley of the Shadow," reflect on the teachings of childhood and bring happiness to the angel mother by fidelity to her ideals.

The bravest battle that ever was fought.

Shall I tell you where and when? On the map of the world you will find it not,

It was fought by the mothers of men.

Nay, not with cannon or battleship,

With sword or nobler pen;

Nay, not with eloquent words or that,

From mouths of wonderful men.

But deep in a walled up woman's heart

Or woman that would not yield.

But patiently, silently bore her part,

So there is that battlefield.

No marching troops, no bivouac song;

No banner to gleam and wave;

And oh! these battles they last so long.

From boudoir to the grave.

Yet faithful still as a bridge of stars;

She fights her walled up town;

Fights on and on in the endless wars,

and silent, unseen, goes down.

Mass Meeting Tomorrow.

At three o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Odd Fellows' hall the program to be rendered by representative speakers of Albuquerque's educational, religious, patriotic and social organizations, will begin with Mayor Elder presiding. A committee appointed by the local W. C. T. U. has arranged this observance of Mothers' day in compliance with the governor's request, and with the hope that it may inaugurate a series of similar observances of this holy day throughout the years to come. At 2:45 in the afternoon the musicians of the Indian school will be heard on Second street at the entrance to the hall, the number being "The American Musician." Subjoined is the revised program in full that will be rendered between the hours of three and five o'clock in the hall: Music: "La Paloma"; Indian School Band Invocation ..... Rev. H. P. #### Eastern Star Muscale.

Classic, elaborate and highly entertaining will be the musical in the Masonic hall next Tuesday evening when Mrs. Luther Steward's music pupils, assisted by local talent and resident artists, will be heard in a benefit recital for the Eastern Star. The majestic temple has been erected by the Masons and the principal feature has been placed, yet there remains much in the way of furnishings and finishing touches the ladies of the Eastern Star desire to contribute, and to this noble aim Mrs. Steward's recital is given. Prominent in the program numbers are the professional vocalists, Mrs. Bradford and Mr. Ballard. The rare sweetness and volume of Mrs. Bradford's cultivated voice always charms her hearers and will be heard to the best advantage in the varied selections that will be given by Mrs. Bradford, who will be accompanied by Mrs. John Wilson, Mr. Harry Ballard's rich, trained voice touches the heart of every listener, and Tuesday evening will be heard in two numbers with piano accompaniment by his little daughter, Martha Ballard. Professional also and highly cultured are the voices of Mr. John Gould, Miss Rose Harsh, Pauline Blucher and Pauline Cartwright. These favorites are invariably called for numerous encores. The Mandolin club is well known for inspiring music and has consented to assist Mrs. Steward in the splendid program. Miss Laura Cartwright, talented amateur reader, will read and dance the mimetic of our grandmothers. Little Miss Marjory Stein and Alice Letarte are unusually talented as pianists and will contribute their talent to the program. The humorous numbers by Don Cavanaugh and Marcelia Matson promise to be extremely pleasing. A notable piano number will be the quartet by performers of ten years that will demonstrate the possibilities of music development in juveniles.

The entire program is rich in classic and entertaining selections that will be a revelation to the public of the intent in Albuquerque.

A dance will follow the formal program and refreshments will be served to all. Appended is the program in full:

Christian Ladies Meet.
Mrs. J. H. Wear was hostess Thursday afternoon to the ladies of the Aid society of the Gold and Bismarck church, who passed a happy afternoon.

University Lecture.

The lecture to the students of the University Monday morning during the assembly hour will be by Prof. G. R. Roberts on "Modern Home Building," which will be the second in the series by Prof. Roberts on this subject.

Thirty Club to Dance.

The second ball under the direction of the Thirty Club will occur next Wednesday evening in Odd Fellows' hall. The executive committee has issued invitations to all the members, who are in turn inviting the wives of three fair dancers who may be persuaded to share the pleasure of the evening. Promptly at 9 o'clock dancing will begin and continue till midnight or such hour as popular sentiment advises adjournment. Building their pleasurable anticipations on the success of the inaugural dance the members and invitees are impatiently eager for the next function of the "Thirty" club.

Military Party.

Another demonstration of the fact that men are born artistic at hat building and needlework was given at the Christian Endeavor social Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hopping. The occasion was the regular business and social meeting of the Christian Endeavorers of the Congregational church, but the business was transacted in double quick time and the session devoted to merrymaking and hat making. The frames and trimmings were provided by the young ladies and armed with needles and thread, thimbles and milliners' materials, the young men were allowed ten minutes in which to build hats. In kindness to the builders it is sufficient to merely remark that some of the hats were "fearfully and wonderfully made." Clever games of advertising representing the various names in the society occasioned much merriment. Music and lunch were also features that contributed to the enjoyment of the evening.

High Five Club.

The Thursday high five club was pleasantly entertained on the regular day this week by Mrs. Fred Russell. The first prize, a pair of cut glass samples of culinary skill.

Missionary Society to Meet.

Thursday afternoon of the coming week the ladies of the Presbyterian Missionary society will hold the regular monthly business program and social meeting in the church parlors. The home topic, on "Color and Porto Rico" will be presented by Mrs. Ward. Mrs. Davis will handle the foreign topic on "Siam and Laos." A reading by Mrs. Elwood will be "When the Deacon Talks in Church." The usual delightful social hour will follow the discussion of the given topics and the routine business.

Hankieker Bazaar.

In the midst of the pressing engagements of the commencement season and the final examinations the young ladies of the University have found time to devote to a most worthy cause and offer substantial aid to the athletic association of the varsity. This afternoon the handkerchief bazaar presided over by these energetic helpers of the Varsity athletes in the hall, 229 South Second street, has been the scene of gay activity as visitors passed in and out, viewing the assortment of handkerchiefs, fluttering throughout the room, and purchasing the styles that pleased the individual taste. This evening, however the bazaar will take on the nature of a brilliant social affair, as in addition to the continued sale of handkerchiefs, an informal dance will entice the casual observer and passerby to engage in the joyful festivities within the hall. Miss Rosemary Evans will have charge of the ice cream booth, and several fair co-eds will dispense home made candies to petitioners for sweets. Mr. Elwood Albright will preside at the paddle wheel. The proceeds of the bazaar will go to the Varsity baseball team. The committee in arrangements who have planned the affair are Miss Evelyn Everett, chairman, Miss Alice McMillan and Mr. Littrell.

Purity League to Meet.

The meeting of the Social Purity League next Monday evening in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. promises to be exceptionally interesting and entertaining, as in addition to the address of the evening by Dr. C. O. Beckman on "Social Purity in the Church" the Mandolin Trio will perform several instrumental numbers. Mrs. Elsie DeWolfe will play the first mandolin, Miss Edna Selke the second mandolin and Mrs. Coons will play the guitar. During the dinner hour preceding the assembly of the Purity league, the Mandolin Trio will render entertainment music in the cafeteria.

Final Round Table Meet.

The last of a most profitable series of Round Table meetings that have continued weekly since the first of the year was held in the library of the Young Women's Christian Association Thursday evening. The room was crowded with young women who participated enthusiastically in the discussion of current topics led by Mrs. A. B. Stroup and Miss Elizabeth Tolter.

The tables, where a wholesome meal was served to the company, were dressed in fragrant red carnations, the gift of one of the florists. After dwelling at length on the work of the present congress and the Mexican war, discussion centered in the literature of the day. Miss Peck of Chicago, the guest of the general secretary, was the honoree of the evening. Louthe to break the happy circle the young women lingered long, expressing their regret over the close of the series and the great pleasure and benefit the meetings had been to them. The class will reassemble in the autumn.

Woman's Circle Entertained.

Mrs. Hinds and Mrs. Burton entertained the members of the Woman's Circle of the Baptist church Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hinds on South Walter street. Current topics were discussed by all the ladies and a most interesting address on "Cooper's Missionary Work" was given by Mrs. Pope, who was an honored guest of the day. A refreshing repast served by the hostesses was an enjoyable feature of the social hour.

President's Reception.

Immediately after the University commencement ceremonies of graduation in the Elks' theater Thursday evening, June 1st, the annual reception of the president, Dr. Edwin McQueen Gray will be held in the Elks' ball room. On this occasion a notable guest will be Dr. David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford University.

sity, who will deliver the address to the graduates.

Purity League Endowed.

A splendid gift from Mrs. W. B. Children to the library of the University consists of 26 handsomely bound volumes of reference and history, materially increasing the advantages to students and faculty, who are gratefully indebted to the generous donor. The volumes are: Biblical Histories, nine volumes; Library of Universal Knowledge, four volumes; Chambers' Encyclopedia, five volumes; Encyclopedias Americana, three volumes; Knight's History of England, one volume; Descriptive Catalogue of Government Publications, one volume; Compendium of Ten Census, One Volume; U. S. Commissioners' Report on Fish and Fisheries, two volumes.

Lecture on Italy.

Prof. Warren L. Moore, instructor in Latin and Greek at the University, delivered a most scholarly lecture on "Italy" to the students of his classes yesterday morning. Handbooks of Naples, Pompeii, Heracleum, Rome and other cities where the speaker had traveled were used in connection with the lecture.

Woman's Circle Entertained.

Mrs. Hinds and Mrs. Burton entertained the members of the Woman's Circle of the Baptist church Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hinds on South Walter street.
